Concierge.com's insider take:

French chef Paul Pairet enjoyed huge success with his playful molecular gastronomy at Pudong Shangri-La's Jade on 36. He then jumped the Huangpu River to go solo on the Bund. The need to book a table here several days in advance proves it was a good move. Pairet is a thoughtful, humorous personality, and his restaurant's kaleidoscopic interior sets a lively, informal tone. Service is gracious and French-trained but unstuffy, while the modern European cuisine blends updated classicism with Pairet's molecular tendencies. The huge menu offers something for most tastes, and surprises for everyone. Arich gazpacho is served with toasted bread, tomato, roasted chile peppers, fresh anchovies, and arugula; Pan-roasted veal cutlets are finished with roasted morels, asparagus, light cream, toasted almonds, and hazelnuts.—Gary Bowerman
