The very best restaurants in town for cuisines from around the world

Last update: 2011-6-17 15:06:07

From imaginative French cuisine to intimate modern Australian degustation menus, Shanghai has a wealth of top international restaurants to choose from. We list five of the very best

Mr & Mrs Bund

If you only go to one Western restaurant in town, make it the hip, buzzy Mr & Mrs Bund, especially as The Bund isn't flush with great Chinese restaurants. Local celebrity chef Paul Pairet does creative French dishes on a bewilderingly long menu – think beef tartare, foie gras crumble, picnic chicken with garlic aioli, 'long short beef ribs' and a lemon tart served in a whole lemon. The vibe is loud, almost nightclub-y, and the people-watching is top-notch.

Where is it? On The Bund. See address details

How much is it? Expect to pay around 450RMB per person.
